By Bill Bagby

STAFF WRITER
GRANITE CITY — Opposition to cable TV rate increases is being led by Mayor Von Dee Cruse.

In a Dec. 31 letter to Floyd Rogers, director of government relations for Cencom Cable Associates Inc., Cruse said he was disturbed by planned rate increases. On Jan. 1 Cencom raised the monthly charge for basic cable service by $2.15, from $8.80 to $10.95.

CRUSE SAID he was also concerned about higher rates for senior citizens. Granite City seniors will pay $4.55 more for basic cable service in 1987, with rates increasing from $4.40 to $8.95 a month.

"Any increases to these people takes a bite out of their budget that can't be replaced," Cruse said.

"If it comes down to a choice between food, medicine, heat or rent on the one hand and cable TV on the other, Cencom's going to lose customers," he said.

CRUSE URGED Rogers to lower basic rates for seniors.

"It would be appreciated by the elderly of Granite City and would be in the best interest of Cencom Cable," he said.

Rogers told the City Council Oct. 21 that Cencom was going to "try to hold the line" on rate increases. Aldermen voted 11-1 that night to approve the sale of Southwestern Cable TV Ltd. to Cencom. Southwestern had serviced the area since April 4, 1979.

CITY OFFICIALS, Cruse said, were misled.

"An across-the-board increase was not anticipated and I think it will have a negative impact on some of our people," he said.

Stormwater improvements soon near industrial park in Madison

By Donna Kimbro

MADISON — Expansion of businesses in the city-owned Stephen Maeras Industrial Park prompted aldermen Tuesday night to discuss installing a new lift pump and moving drainage ditches.

The hope is to eliminate standing water before the 1987 spring rains.

The cost has not been determined. The starting date has been set tentatively for early in the year, so that the project can be completed by March or April.

MAYOR JOHN Belcoff said,

"This needs to be taken care of for the benefit of businesses operating in and near the industrial park."

He noted that Lanter Manufacturing Co. has built an addition to its present plant and is in the process of constructing a $1½-million warehouse building on Collinsville Avenue near the Laclede Steel Co. site.

With the closing of the United Interstate building, formerly leased by the Canteen Co., Lanter is considering buying that lease for a third business location, Belcoff said.

Since the Waggoner Trucking Co. has closed its business, located on approximately three acres, the Helmkamp Construction Co. of Wood River now uses the facility to store heavy equipment, it was related.

WAGGONER obtained the lease from the city several years ago, Belcoff said. The city is now attempting to interest a company in taking over the Waggoner business site.

The industrial park in the eastern end of Madison was established by the municipality during the administration of the late Mayor Maeras. It has been instrumental in expanding job opportunities in this region, officials say.

Seven more take petitions

Venice — Seven additional petitions for aldermanic posts on the City Council have been picked up by prospective candidates.

The seven new prospects join five other persons who previously obtained petitions.

FOUR SEATS on the City Council will be decided in the April 7, 1987, election.

The largest number of possible candidates is in the 1st Ward, where a vacancy has existed since Phillip Daniels resigned as alderman at the Nov. 25 meeting.

At subsequent council sessions, Mayor Tyrone Echols did not choose anyone to fill the aldermanic post by appointment.

NEW POTENTIAL candidates picking up petitions from City Comptroller Roseann Koelker included:

First Ward — Arnold Johnson, 815 Fourth St., Earl Hogan, 221 Kerr St., Carolynne "Pam" Wilson, 919 Fourth St., and Christopher Cox, 919 Third St.

These four join Charles Collins,

212 Hampden St., and Phillip White, 203 Granville St., who obtained 1st Ward petitions earlier last month.

Second Ward — Silver Franklin,

518 Washington Ave.

Three others from the 2nd Ward already securing petitions were incumbent Alderman George Mangiaracino, 1310 Oriole St., Mervyn Langston, 519 Jefferson St., and Barbara Harrell, 624 Washington Ave.

1986 a busy, happy, sad year

By Valerie Evenden

Little physical change shows when looking around the local community today, but a great deal occurred good and bad — in the past 12 months.

A proposal to revitalize the downtown Granite City area was unveiled early in 1986 and still promises to become a reality.

Granite City Steel, the area's largest employer, continued to produce quality products on a three-shift schedule. A. O. Smith production increased. Nestle came out with a successful new beverage produced here, and construction of new industrial buildings continued along Illinois 3.

In many ways it was a sad year.

Everyone felt a sense of personal loss when the shuttle Challenger exploded in flight on Jan. 28 and seven astronauts were killed.

One of the seven was school teacher Christa McAuliffe, a personal friend of Dr. Alice Purdes, a Venice educator. Christa's death was mourned by children and adults alike.

School board controversy, murders and some odd results in the March primary election added to a mixed bag of happenings in 1986.

Granite City civic leaders visited East Peoria on Jan. 18 to hear of redevelopment in a depressed downtown area there.

The trip came on the heels of a proposal made Jan. 7 by City Economic Development Director Alan Orbitalis that a two-block-square area be developed as a shopping center mall in downtown Granite City.

Meanwhile, the Madison City

Council wrote off $310,477 in fund debts, and Venice pupils and citizens honored the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. with a program and march on his birthday.

Also in January, Robert Wydra, 45, was named general manager of the Tri-City Regional Port District. Scheduled elimination of federal revenue sharing produced a rash of petitions from local government entities in February, and Regional Superintendent of Schools Gene Briggs announced he would retire in 1987. Elected as his successor was his nephew, Harry A. Briggs Jr.

Eric Robertson became United Way board president, taking over from Bob Glick. John Hopkins was named president of the Tri-City Bar Association and Don Kassing resigned as president of the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College to accept a college post in Colorado.

BAC Chancellor Bruce Wissore said extensive repairs were needed at GGC. Fire ravaged several apartments on Village Lane. Former GC mayor Paul Schuler became executive director of the Madison County Housing Authority on March 3.

Residents of Madison and Venice opposed merging their two school districts at a March hearing. Of five Democratic candidates for sheriff in the March primary, Bob Churchich of Altam won, qualifying to oppose and defeat Republican Tom Voloski in the November election.

The unthinkable happened in Illinois on March 18 when two far-right Lyndon LaRouche supporters, Mark Fairchild and Janice Hart, won Democratic primary berths as lieutenant governor and secretary of state over party-backed candidates. Both Fairchild and Hart were defeated in November.

April brought re-election of GC Street Supr. Mac Warfield as Madison County Democratic chairman by defeating GC Mayor Von Dee Cruse and former Madison

Mayor Mike Sasyk. Crossing guards assume duties on Madison Avenue at Granite City High School after close calls between students and motorists.

The body of Clifford D. Potts, 50, of St. Louis, slain here in December 1985, was found in the Chain of Rocks Canal. Charles A. Thomson, 27, of Madison, was sentenced to 25 years in prison for the crime prior to the body being found.

Daniel J. Stack, 35, a Highland lawyer, was named a Madison County associate judge, now assigned to the Granite City court. Jerry Kane was named to administer the Madison County Transit District.

New principals were named at most Granite City schools.

Build Illinois funds played a big part in the local area, with $500,000 allocated to repair sanitary sewers in Granite City and $161,500 presented to the Port District.

The Illinois Senate voted to honor the late Henry D. Karandjeff by changing the name of Horseshoe Lake to Karandjeff Lake.

Nestle Foods Corp. introduced its new beverage, Nestle Ice Teasers, produced at the local plant; occupancy permits were planned by the Granite City government.

Venice was promised $4 million by the Illinois Transportation Department for overhaul of the Broadway viaduct. State drunk boating laws were strengthened.

The Granite City School Board asked the Circuit Court to rule on its conduct of meetings under the Open Meetings Act. United Steelworkers approved a 39-month contract with National Steel 3,412 to 2,247 at the three plants.

Real estate executive Carl Hoffman, 49, and his wife, Susan, 27, were murdered at their home April 30. Stunned residents followed the intensive investigation by the Greater St. Louis Major Case Squad through detailed reports in the Press-Record-Journal.

On May 8, Jack G. Bruce, 42, who had reported being shot on May 3, was arrested on four counts of murder and one count each of armed violence, home invasion and attempted murder in the Hoffman case. He remains in the Madison County jail.

On May 7, Charles C. Parker, 27, of Granite City, was stabbed to death on Ohio Avenue. David K. Patterson was arrested.

A liquor license was granted to the National supermarket by Mayor Von Dee Cruse on May 8. Granite City police signed a three-year contract with the city and Anna Chaggett was elected president of the Venice Park Board in May.

Ernest A. Karandjeff, 70, chairman of Central Banc System and the American Heritage and Central banks here, was killed May 16 in an auto accident on Interstate 270 near Illinois 393. His son, Drew Karandjeff, succeeded him. American merged with Central. George Sykes won his eighth term as Granite City Park Board president. Hundreds of guests visited the Granite City Army installation to mark Armed Forces Week.

Venice students received medals for participating in Illinois Bell academic olympics. A "Hands Across America" coast-to-coast chain raised funds for the homeless and hungry.

Pontoon Beach annexed 2,400 acres on June 10, doubling the size of the village. Madison Assistant Police Chief Charles Bridick was named chief, succeeding William Papa.

Also in June, Leo H. Konzen was appointed to the Belleville Area Col-

Pentagon shuts off satellites

WASHINGTON — Last spring, the first photos the American public saw of the Soviet's nuclear disaster at Chernobyl were taken by a satellite circling over the area.

Six months later, an obscure Beirut newspaper broke the shocking details of the Reagan administration's secret arms-for-hostages deal with Iran.

What is the significance of these two unrelated incidents? Simply this: Taken together, they demonstrate the folly of a modern government — even one as tightly controlled as the Soviet Union — attempting to hide embarrassing information through censorship.

In the case of Chernobyl, it was state-of-the-art technology that laid bare the Kremlin's gruesome secret; in the Iran case, it was state-of-the-art politics that exposed the clandestine White House arms sales to Iran.

Unfortunately, there are high-ranking officials in the Pentagon who refuse to acknowledge the obvious lesson of Chernobyl and Iran: Like the poor Luddites who attacked the machines that were taking their Jobs, these brass hats think they can protect America from spy-in-the-sky satellites by legislating limits on the technology allowed in U.S.-licensed commercial satellites.

But the Pentagon obviously can't impose censorship on the whole world, let alone the Soviet satellites that should be their primary concern. All they'll accomplish by clamping a lid of secrecy on U.S. government satellites, and restricting the technology of American commercial satellites, is to throw business to foreign companies — and possibly keep the American public in the dark for a few days or hours.

Despite this hard reality, the Navy, as one example, wants to classify the raw information obtained by commercial satellite mapping techniques covering the 200-mile-wide undersea "exclusive economic zone" surrounding the United States. Recent advances in the sensors used to gather or bathymetric data produce better quality and more detailed pictures than ever before.

The information has traditionally been made available to researchers and scientists, but the Navy is afraid the data would permit Soviet submarines to penetrate American waters undetected. So the admirals want to classify the material — a move equivalent to "classifying a road map for fear of invasion," as one government expert remarked to our associate Donald Goldberg.

Despite the futility of the exercise, an advisory panel has recommended classification of all raw data obtained by the satellite surveys. The information would be made available only on a case-by-case basis to researchers, scientists, mining companies and others who don't work for the KGB.

WATCH ON THE PENTAGON. There is a distinct possibility that the United States could go to war and the required military hardware would never show up in the battle zone, according to a recent General Accounting Office study. The auditors discovered that the Military Command doesn't have enough reliable equipment to load its cargo planes. The Air Force is aware of the shortage and is planning to spend $220 million on new lifter loaders.

We will remember what we feel

It's over. The year we have become accustomed to signing on our checks is history. We can cry or laugh about it but we cannot change it.

One year — an artificial lump of time with 365 days, each with 24 hours. We need such a measure of time to file our remembrances of good times and bad.

1986 will not be remembered as a particularly historic year. It was a year without "major" national upheavals or "great changes" in our society. Most people old enough to recall exactly where they were and what they were doing when President John F. Kennedy was shot. It's doubtful they will remember where they were when Congress approved one of the most sweeping tax bills in recent memory.

We won't remember that the precipitation level for 1986 in the Metro East area was 34.88 inches and the hottest day occurred on July 18 with 102 degrees.

East St. Louis, however, will remember the day flood waters came into their homes.

We remember past events because we feel them.

On a personal level, it was as important a year as any other. Our children are one year older, learning to talk, walk or drive. Those are important accomplishments and ones that will be recalled by individuals, probably more often than the Iran-Contra affair.

"I think it was in 1986, yes, I'm positive it was that year when Johnny creamed a fire hydrant with our Chevy coming out of the driveway." I remember because it was the same day the Jones's house caught fire next door. Johnny's mom, a great friend of yours, will say 10 years from now. You don't forget events like that.

We will remember our vacations, our break from the routine. Some will remember a once-in-a-lifetime trip to a far-away land. They will have photographs, tons of them. The year will be fully documented on the package of photos. No way such a trip could be forgotten.

Others will recall their vacation at the time they remodeled the bathroom. Daily use will make it difficult to forget this historic event. To others, 1986 will be remembered as the time they lost their jobs, found new ones or graduated from college.

Clippings and memorabilia will record our son's and daughter's accomplishments this past year.

Whether they were the "1986 conference champions," or winners of a debate team award, a repeat will probably not happen and these accomplishments should be remembered.

"The highs and lows, we all remember if the events affected us. Deaths, births and marriages appear as a blip in the local newspaper and are quickly forgotten. But, somewhere, someone will remember each death, birth and marriage.

Some will remember popular songs from 1986, associating them with happy or sad times in their lives, though I cannot recall a tune from 1986 I will remember.

Newspapers and television will remind us what the big events were in 1986. Famous faces, airline crashes and hijackings, political trauma in Washington D.C. and Granite City, active volcanoes and a wide variety of maddening events will pass before our eyes for a second time. Most will be remembered by a few.

But, we will remember what we need and want to about 1986. These memories will generally not be of earth-shaking events. They will, rather, be of the events and the people around us who have touched us in some way.

Study critical of lottery ads

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Economic and Fiscal Commission recently issued an extensive report on the Illinois State Lottery that was critical of some of the advertising methods the lottery uses.

However, the report by the IEFC — the Legislature's fiscal advisory staff — dismissed allegations made in November by the Chicago-based Better Government Association which said Chicago schools were being "gypped" by the lottery.

The BGA cited a 1979 "attitude and usage" study on marketing the lottery that showed the minorities were paying more for the lottery, but were not getting their "fair share" in education funds, which is aided by the lottery.

The IEFC used a study of the lottery by ZIP code in assessing the game's impact on the poor. Low-income ZIP code areas contain 9 percent of the state's population but account for 15 percent of the lottery sales, it reported. Mainly black ZIP code areas make up 12 percent of the state and represent 22 percent of the total lottery sales.

The study said, "Although the black ZIP codes displayed a disproportionate amount of sales relative to population, there was no indication that the percentage of blacks in a given ZIP code was directly related to per capita sales in the black, mixed or even predominantly white ZIP codes. This suggests that other factors aside from race, could also be stimulating the higher level of sales."

Commission Chairman Sen. Dave Clark, Neesh, D-Chicago, and Rep. Thomas Ewing, R-Pontiac, added that the increased sales could be related to the social problems inherent in legalized gambling.

Another area of high lottery sales was found on the state's borders. Of the 40 ZIP codes that are on the border, 39 are in the top 100 ZIP codes in terms of per capita sales — 14 in the top 25.

Lake County, which is on the northern Illinois border, was second only to Cook County in total sales with $57.36 million annually. Cook had $68.3 million.

Lake County ranked 19th in per capita sales with $123.

St. Clair and Madison counties, bordering Missouri near St. Louis, accounted for $55.59 million and $46.68 million in total sales, and $208 and $187 per capita, respectively.

Other counties in northeast Illinois that were ranked in the top 20 of total lottery sales were:

— DuPage County, fifth with $38.06 million.
— Will County, seventh with $22.23 million.
— Kane County, ninth with $18.88 million.
— McHenry County, with $10.76 million.

The report was most critical of the advertising methods used by the lottery.

While the report said the content of the lottery's advertising used in the state was consistent throughout the state, it concluded by saying, "The simplicity of lottery advertising may be misleading the poor and uneducated into spending substantially greater portions of their incomes on dreams. State government has responsibilities towards all of its citizens; it should not pit the best interests of these individuals against one of its revenue-producing efforts."

The report criticizes the lottery and its marketing firm for not clearly explaining the odds — which the report called "infinite, mal" — in its television and radio advertising.

Lottery Director Rebecca Paol said the lengths of television and radio ads do not permit odds information to be presented meaningfully.

Also criticized was the amount of advertising directed to the Chicago area, where 72.1 percent of total advertising expenditures were directed in the last fiscal year, while only 65.5 percent of the adults-eligible to play the lottery live there.

The lottery's marketing firm, Bozell, Jacobs, Kenyon and Eckhardt said that more is spent in Chicago "at least partly because of the high percentage of sports broadcasts originating from Chicago," and report states, "The impact of these ads are often felt in other markets as well."

The report cites "the clearest example of geographic targeting" with the Daily Game/Pick 4 strategy of 1983.

Negative news: perception vs. perception

By Jack C. Ventimiglia

Executive Editor

GRANITE CITY — "Negative Reporting" is the label some, both for and against what was written, give this newspaper's accounts of District 9 activities in 1986.

The preponderance of information concerning District 9 should factually and appropriately be labeled positive, but the strong perception of negativity prevails.

Supporting the conclusion that most reporting was positive is the total amount of news produced about District 9. In gathering this data through the tedious process of physically measuring it, hundreds of inches of sports information was discarded. Sports, though bolstering the premise of positive reporting, was left out because — for review purposes — it was determined to have more entertainment news value. Also not considered were neutral stories, such as school menus. This left approximately 31 inches of District 9 news for study purposes.

At this juncture, it is important to note the definition of "negative news" is not synonymous with "slanted news." Slanted news is one-sided and intentionally biased. None of our stories were slanted or continually sought all sides before writing our news stories. But the issues reported can be negative or positive, as is found in the reporting of District 9 activities.

Take for example the story about the former superintendent, Dr. Max Redmond, being honored at a tea by scores of residents and others. We could have called the story positive or neutral, but did not. The board was not attacked in the story, but the story was part of the controversy facing the board and was therefore labeled negative. Dominant among the District 9 stories we labeled negative were any dealing with Redmond's relationship to the board.

Hours of review resulted in the conclusion that 78 percent of the District 9 reporting was positive and 25 percent negative with three-fourth of the information logical, scientific verification that the placement of the negative news stories and the editorialization that occurred during the period are prime contributors to the negative news perception.

Overall, 2,011 inches of news matter concerning District 9 appeared on the front pages produced in 1986. Forty-six percent of that news was negative. Though 54 percent — the majority of the Page-One news — was positive, the majority of negative stories were concentrated in a three-month period: April, May and June. In that period, the total inches of negative Page-One news was 447 versus 272.5 inches of positive Page-One news — 62 percent of the front-page news for the period was negative.

Media Mandarin

By Jack C. Ventimiglia

The negative news content during the period may have negated, in the minds of readers, the positive front-page news that appeared in the months before the controversy. In the first quarter, most Page-One news was positive: 286 positive inches versus 60 negative, meaning 78 percent of the news in that period was positive.

Boistering the negative perception some may hold is the extremely strong editorial position the newspaper took during the controversy. No editorial stands about the School Board were taken in the first or last quarters of 1986, but virtually all editorial remarks about the Board of Education taken in the middle quarters were intentionally, strongly biased against the board — 255 inches, mostly in April, May and June.

This strong period of negativism, mainly in the second quarter, probably accounts for the negative perception of our reporting, but the majority of reporting in the period was actually positive. Out of 2,130 inches of District 9 news, 33 percent of the reporting and editorializing was negative.

In conclusion, the figures show most of the news was positive about District 9 in 1986, but by a slim margin most of the Page-One news about District 9 was positive, and almost all of the editorializing was negative.

What does it say about our reporting on District 9?

In reality, we cannot hope to remove perceptions some may have, but the facts show most of our reporting was positive. The positive or negative nature of our reporting should not, however, be equated with whether or not our reporting was "good."

ON JUNE 18, Dr. Max Redmond is honored at a tea by more than 150 persons during the height of controversy in District 9.

Good reporting is done without fear or favor and always because the public has the right to know the actions of its elected leaders. In the case of the District 9 Board of Education, we reported the good things being done in the district and there were many — but because there were negative things occurring, we carried out our responsibility to report these things.

There are those who will argue any negative reporting is counterproductive and should be stopped because it is not good for the district. Therein lies a matter of debate. Certainly, it is not good for the elected officials involved, and it does not look good to outsiders to read bad things about the district. But from our perspective, when problems exist, the public has to be informed so it can take corrective action, if deemed fit. Hidden problems are not resolved problems.

In 1987, the prognosis for our reporting on the School Board or any other government body is neutral. We will report problems if problems become evident. We report the "good news" when it is evident. Our motivation isn't to be liked, though we'd like to be. Our goal is to take honest editorial stands and to fairly report the news, a simple-sounding but often very difficult task — the only task to which we set ourselves.

Prather holds caroling party

There were over 700 students and teachers attending the Christmas caroling party at Prather School on the last day of classes prior to the holiday vacation.

Michael Loftus, principal, joined the group of teachers that led the student body in an animated version of the 12 days of Christmas.

Prather band students gave their first performance, rendering three carols, "Jingle Bells," "Good King" and "O Come Little Children" under the direction of Mary Ann Davis, band teacher.

Everyone in the school had learned all the words of 15 carols that were sung during a holiday assembly.

Levee Line buses halt for the winter

The special Bi-State bus service known as the Levee Line will operate through Sunday, Jan. 4, and then cease operation for the winter.

The line, which circulates in downtown St. Louis, connecting Union Station, St. Louis Centre, Lucile's Landing and the Riverfront, began service on May 19.

The Levee Line was primarily intended to serve visitors to the city during the summer months and was planned to run only through September. Because of its success, several organizations requested its continuation through the holiday season. Through their support, it was possible to offer free service and to extend the line to include Union Station.

Five-point senior citizen program by Madison County state's attorney

Five programs to help senior citizens cope with crime will be emphasized by Madison County State's Attorney Dick Allen in 1987. Participation by each police department will be sought. The proposals:

I. Victim visitation program. Each police department will be staffed with a police officer assigned to gather and review statistics on crimes committed against senior citizens and handicapped persons. Where crime patterns develop, the Senior Services officers provide information to field personnel and the Madison County State's Attorney's Office of Senior Victims Assistance, pointing out the particular circumstances which expose elderly and/or disabled citizens to greater risk of victimization. Specific crime areas are targeted for special attention and directed patrol.

After identifying crimes victimizing seniors and disabled, the Senior Services officers contact and visit the victims of these crimes, attempting to elicit further information helpful in leading to the arrest and prosecution of the offenders.

Any additional necessary police services are rendered. Where police services are not necessary or have been exhausted, referral to appropriate social service agencies is made.

Cases involving the victimization of deaf persons, speech impaired, mentally handicapped or other communicatively disabled persons are referred to the administrative office staffed with officers experienced and/or qualified in interpreting or rendering other assistance.

II. Medlog identification bracelet program.

Senior citizens (persons 55 years of age and older) and disabled persons may register within the police department in order to obtain a stainless steel expansion bracelet containing their name, their district number and personal code number.

The department within which they live maintains a file card upon which will be listed pertinent medical information. If a person becomes a victim of a crime, injured or incapacitated, prompt medical attention and notification of family members is facilitated by the bracelet program.

III. Advisory council program. Senior citizens and disabled persons form the core of this program.

Representatives of private group living organizations, Public Housing Authority senior buildings, Department on Aging and Disability, church groups and any other community-based groups with an interest in the welfare of senior citizens and handicapped comprise advisory councils.

The aims of these councils are both to suggest methods of ensuring the greater safety of senior citizens and disabled living in the area, and to decrease the fear and anxiety affecting the lifestyle of this target population.

Crime prevention education programs, social activities and programs designed to reach out to isolated senior citizens and handicapped persons are stressed as a means to attain stated goals.

The advisory councils are instrumental in providing information on unreported crimes in the community as well as keeping the Senior Services officers and the police department abreast of major concerns among seniors and the disabled.

IV. Prevention presentation program.

A speakers' unit—comprised of state's attorney and police personnel regularly presents crime prevention programs specifically tailored to address the special needs of senior citizens and the disabled.

Street safety, home security and confidence schemes are topics addressed, often to groups numbering in the hundreds. Current crime patterns and trends in specific communities are taken into consideration when scheduling these programs.

Speakers reinforce safety habits by emphasizing awareness of criminal activity and focusing on crime prevention techniques. Participation in these crime prevention programs leads to decreased anxiety among seniors and disabled citizens and allows them to participate more fully in society.

V. Disability awareness program. This program addresses the need for the police department to comply with 1973 Rehabilitation Act Mandates.

Blindness, deafness, mental retardation and mobility-limiting handicaps are defined and discussed during this all-day program. Obligations of law enforcement agencies, hospitals and the courts are outlined.

and situational dilemmas are presented.

Law enforcement agencies are judged through how readily accessible they are, not just to the average citizen but to every citizen.

The Senior Services Division, through its programs, attempts to make the police department more accessible and responsive to those groups which so often feel vulnerable to becoming crime victims.

Review

1986—It was a very good, bad year

lege board and Circuit Judge William Johnson, 56, resigned due to a disabling stroke suffered in April 1986. Johnson was replaced in late 1986 by Paul Riley.

Nearly a million people loudly cheered spectacular Fourth of July fireworks sponsored by Suburban Newspapers of St. Louis at the Gateway Arch. The Granite City High School marching band took third place in the Veiled Proband parade that weekend.

Groundbreaking ceremonies were held July 7 for the new Specialized Services building on Illinois 3 near Heidtman Steel. Other new buildings also are being constructed in Northgate Industrial Park. The City Council authorized $2.5 million in industrial revenue bonds to help finance the project.

A $1.6 million Madison County Transit District facility was built at Interstate 270 and Illinois 111. Work began in 1986 on a new branch library on Johnson Road; it is expected to cost $240,000.

Larry Earney of Illinois-American Water Co. voluntarily located and corrected a 28,000 gallons per day water leak at the Wilson Park swimming pool. The Port District offered $912,000 for 104 acres at the Army installation to create an industrial park.

A tug-of-war developed between Nameoki Township and Granite City on city annexation of 1,202 acres along Edwardsville Road, including the Granite City Steel blast furnace. A restraining order was dismissed in circuit court July 21 and the property was annexed.

Fred R. Williams, 73, president of First Granite City Savings and Loan since 1969 and an employee there for 39 years, died July 13. Peter Ponce, Venice-Lincoln Technical Center administrator, was named a regional director of the Illinois Adult and Continuing Education Association.

Four heat relief stations were opened in the Quad-City Area and hay was donated by Illinois farmers to feed cattle in drought-stricken areas of Georgia and the Carolinas.

Dr. Max Redmond resigned July 26 after a stormy 14-month tenure as Granite City School District 9 superintendent and accepted a position with the Sherrard (Ill.) school system. WGN's Bob Baker (Albert Lee Stevens Jr.) retired, ending a 42-year radio career, including 24½ years at the local station, which later marked its 25th anniversary.

Gilbert Walmisley was chosen as Granite City school superintendent on Aug. 5. Dick Erway, who had resigned as Granite City civil defense coordinator, became food service director in the school district and later was succeeded in the CD position by Bill Harris, who continued as police chief.

The Circuit Court in August issued a permanent injunction barring Jerry-Russell Bliss Inc. from using a waste storage facility on Bissell Street, Venice.

Ginger Booker, 17, a Madison vocalist, placed first in judging at the Illinois State Fair. Venice teachers agreed to a two-year contract and bus drivers transporting Granite City students were scheduled for mandatory drug testing.

Granite City backed away from a controversial plan to annex parts of Chouteau and Nameoki townships when objections were filed Sept. 3, but a new annexation proposal was developed late in the year. Nearby residents objected to 100 condominiums proposed for the Villa Drive area.

In September, a majority of aldermen voted to retain a 5 percent telephone tax. It had been proposed by voters in an April 1986 advisory referendum.

Street gang violence flared in Madison, where two men were held Sept. 21 at the Army Installation, commemorating 153 Illinoisans still missing in action or prisoners of war. Dedication of the City Hall in Granite City took place, Sept. 28, marking completion of renovations and installation of an elevator.

In mid-October, the Madison County Board unanimously voiced its disapproval of moving the U. S. district judge in Alton to East St. Louis. Hardee's Restaurant in Granite City sustained $225,000 fire damage and two firemen were injured slightly while fighting the blaze. It reopened a few days later.

South-Western Cable TV was sold in October to Cencom Cable Associates of Chesterfield, Mo., which raised the fees in late December.

The three local school systems issued their first districtwide "report cards" in October, detailing such surprises in such areas as pupil accomplishments, income levels and family mobility.

St. Louisian dies of gunshot wound

Charles Smith, 31, of St. Louis, died of a gunshot wound to the stomach about 3 a.m. Saturday in the critical care unit at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

Mr. Smith suffered the wound when shot with a .38 caliber revolver about 3:30 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 1, during an apparent argument near Venice Gas and Oil service station at South 4th Street and Broadway, Venice.

Mozell Forti, 30, of 2714 Bond Ave., East St. Louis, was arrested at about 3:30 a.m. Thursday, Jan. 1, during an apparent argument near Venice Gas and Oil service station at South 4th Street and Broadway, Venice.

Fort was released Friday after posting a $15,000 bond, a Venice police spokesman said.

Funeral arrangements for Mr. Smith are pending at a St. Louis funeral home.

The Venice School Board decided to ask that voters in April 1987 repeal a 1979 referendum establishing textbook fees.

A close race Nov. 4 between incumbent U.S. Rep. Mel Price, Democrat, and his Republican opponent, Bob Gaffner, ended with Price winning by 845. The contender conceded defeat Dec. 26 after a partial recount cut the margin only slightly. Gov. James Thompson won an unprecedented fourth term.

Dr. Kanubhai M. Patel, an internist, was elected president of the St. Elizabeth Medical Center medical staff Nov. 5. Kelly Hogan became Granite City School Board president for the second time, and Venice began its search for a new superintendent of schools to replace Robert Vickers, who will retire in 1987.

Granite City soprano Erie Mills was seen Nov. 12 on the Public Broadcasting System telecast, "Live from Lincoln Center" as she sang in Leonard Bernstein's "Candide" with the New York City Opera.

November brought Japanese businessmen to tour A. O. Smith, Granite City Steel and the Port District. Venice high basketball star Jesse Hall, wooed by many colleges, decided to attend Michigan State University.

Area residents were shocked by the shooting deaths of Ruth Ann Rapoff, 49, of Granite City, and her parents, Hugh C. Stuart, 84, and Bertie M. Stuart, 80, at the Stuarts' Madison home Nov. 17. An inquest jury blamed Mr. Stuart.

Murders in Madison County set a new record-of-26 in 1986.

Dr. Felicia Koch, longtime physician and civic leader, decided to retire to Houston, Texas, and the Medical Center auxiliary completed a $200,000 donation to the outpatient cardiac rehabilitation and wellness center at the renovated McKinley School building. Santa arrived by helicopter Nov. 29 to start the holiday season and 1,150 families applied at the Salvation Army for Christmas aid. The Tree of Lights drive for $63,000, led by Avery Schermer, exceeded its goal.

Schnuck's Market moved from the Crossroads Shopping Center to bigger facilities at the former Kroger store in the Nameoki Village Center. Elican Inc. broke ground for a $9.5 million wastewater treatment and resource recovery plant on Illinois 3.

National Steel dedicated a new $16 million ladle metallurgy station at Granite City Steel. A new Aldi food store was announced for Granite City. James Barton, former Madison County supervisor of assessments, pleaded guilty to five charges related to assessment reduction kickbacks.

The Consolidated Aluminum plant in Madison was purchased by Spectralite Corp. of Midland, Mich.

The Tri-Cities Area United Way drive to help 18 community service agencies topped its $751,000 goal; Don Shaffner was chairman.

A magnetic resonance imager is coming to St. Elizabeth Medical Center to help diagnose heart problems, it was announced. "Old Newsboys' Day," co-sponsored by the Suburban Journals and former Globe Democrat, raised $225,000 for charities.

Retiring Madison Superintendent of Schools John Patchett was honored at a reception after 32 years of service to the district. Daniel Kostenick was chosen as the new superintendent.

Superintendent officials voted Dec. 23 to take part in a proposed five-community energy producing, waste disposal service. Pontoon Beach leaders voted to go ahead with several public improvements. And it was decided to prepare a master plan for use of the Granite City High School and Coolidge Junior High School campus.

Orville E. Hodge, 82, of Granite City, once the most powerful political figure in Illinois, died Dec. 28.

Thus ended a year dominated to some degree by sadness and, in many cases, violence. What will the new year bring? Who can tell? But there are threads leading into 1987 that promise a happier, more productive and less turbulent 12 months ahead.

Winter tourists sought in state

DCCA Director Jay R. Hedges said his department's Office of Tourism is launching a campaign in January to encourage residents of Illinois and neighboring states to take advantage of this state's winter events and activities.

Dubbed "Let's get back at Mother Nature for all she's dumped on us," the campaign will highlight activities like downhill and cross-country skiing, sledding, ice skating and snowmobiling. It will be conducted in Illinois, Iowa and Missouri as part of DCCA's $10 million tourism effort, now in its third year.

Hedges said it is the first time the Department of Commerce and Community Affairs is using winter to boost tourism in Illinois.

"People often shudder when they think of winter, and only wish it would go away. We're saying winter is an enjoyable time of year for those who take advantage of it, and we want more people to adopt this positive view," Hedges said.

There is a toll-free information number, 1-800-223-0121, through which a complimentary guide to Illinois winter activities may be obtained.

Mrs. Elmore hosts Sisterhood meeting

Mrs. Emma Elmore entertained the Dewey Avenue United Methodist Church Sisterhood in her home for the annual Christmas party.

She served a noon luncheon, with Gladys Potillo offering the table blessing. During the afternoon the group sang carols and collected donations for a white offering of the church.

Others present were Evelyn Hamilton, Mayme Waggoner, Eleanor Hobson, Millie Sherman, Mary Bun, Mary Davis, Elsie Byrd, Evelyn Thompson and Mary Hanfelder.

Granite City BPW club holds dinner party

The annual Christmas dinner party of the Granite City Business and Professional Women's Organization was held at Charlie's Restaurant, where decorations were in keeping with the holiday season.

Favors for members and guests were sachet packets and small loaves of homemade bread. Preceding the dinner hour, a get-acquainted game was played.

President Becky Slate welcomed members and guests and introduced Zena Voss, chairman of the party, and members of her committee. A handmade quilt was given to Janet Belshe, daughter of Van Sturt, a member of the club.

Other prizes were awarded to Edna Trower, Daphne Smith, Sheila Moran, Ginny Harrison, Joy McLeod and Louise Wade. Exchange gifts related to the months in which birthdays occurred.

Induction of new members was conducted by Rosalie Stern, membership co-chairman. Those initiated were Danni Layman, sponsored by Kathy Cornell; Louise Wade and Marlene Johnson, sponsored by Darlene Laub; Sheila Moran by Carol Dumoulin; and Irene Feeler by Evelyn Alford.

Two large baskets of canned foods, donated by the members, were sent with a check for $75 to the Salvation Army for holiday use.

Mrs. Slate announced her appointment of Kathy Dillon as treasurer for the remainder of the year and noted the books will be audited by Ramona Burnett, Louise Smith and Van Sturt.

The members approved Lorene Sadrakula as a candidate for treasurer of District XIV for the 1987-88 year.

Mrs. Slate reminded the group to attend the January meeting, when the budget and revised 1986-87 budget will be presented by Hazel Rollins, finance chairman. Changes to by-laws will be presented by Helene Bishoff for approval.

A nominating committee will be elected to plan a slate of officers for the 1987-88 year. The recommendations will be presented at the March meeting.

The January session will include the Young Careerist program, with Becky Jones as chairman.

NOSE DIVE: A twin-engine Cessna skids to a halt at the Granite City Campus of Belleville Area College on July 30. The plane was making its last flight to the campus, where it was to be used in the aircraft maintenance program. Its landing gear collapsed, causing the near-disasterous mishap.

$16 MILLION EXPANSION: The ladle metallurgy station at Granite City Steel is dedicated Dec. 4. The new technology at the plant allows production of clean, high-quality steel. A huge ladle of molten steel is viewed by officials the day of the dedication.

BURN VICTIM AIDED: Jimmy Donnell, 12, is given emergency aid by Granite City emergency personnel March 24. The boy was the victim of a fire in a vacant house that had been on the city's condemnation list for more than two years.

MAC'S BACK: Madison County Democratic Central Committee Chairman Mac Warfield is congratulated by a supporter March 31 after he was re-elected to the post during a closed convention at the courthouse in Edwardsville.

FISH FOR DUCKS: Fish carcasses float near two pipes being used at Horseshoe Lake in July. The pipes were used to lower an area of the lake to allow millet to be planted in that area. Millet is used to attract ducks to lowered side of the lake for duck hunters, but at the expense of killing hundreds of fish.

A last look at 1986

This is a collection of some of the best photographs taken by staff photographer Patrick Foley during 1986.

The photo of the near-disasterous landing of a plane at Granite City Campus, at top left, has just recently won Foley first place for news photography in the third-quarter editorial contest of the Press Association of Greater St. Louis. Foley also won first place in the enterprise/feature photography category with his photo of a high-flying bicyclist doing a stunt during the Granite City Craft and Food Fest downtown in June.

Foley's work, and that of his fellow reporters, is evidence the Press-Record/Journal is constantly striving to bring you the best in local news coverage, in the tradition of its 83-year history.

1986 all-area football (large schools)

KERWIN PRICE, quarterback, East St. Louis: One of the nation's most sought-after recruits, Price completed 37 of 80 passes for 823 yards and eight touchdowns before suffering a season-ending injury in the first round of the playoffs. Price, who also played at running back, rushed for 620 yards.

RANDY SCHMIDT, running back, Belleville East: A three-year varsity starter — two at running back — Schmidt rushed for more than 900 yards despite being hobbled by a knee injury in the Panthers' seventh game of the season.

"He's the best-conditioned athlete I've ever had," said Coach Mike McGinnis. "He's a hard inside runner with good quickness and an instinct that made (defenders) pretty honest."

JUAN COX, running back-defensive back, Althoff: Cox's tenacity more than made up for his size (5-9, 160 pounds). He had more than 900 yards rushing, averaged 7.2 yards per carry and scored 11 touchdowns. Defensively, he was second in the area with eight interceptions.

"He was our catalyst... he got us going in many big ballgames," Coach Glenn Schott said. "He was the most exciting running back in the area."

BOBBY LEWIS, running back, O'Fallon: A 6-2, 182-pound senior, Lewis gained 711 yards on just 105 carries for the 7-3 Panthers. He also set school records by returning a punt 72 yards and a kickoff 92 yards. He was a two-year letterman after transferring to O'Fallon from Marion.

"We were very talented at running back, and he was the most talented of all of them," said Panthers' Coach Gary Bridell of Lewis. "If we'd have gone with just one running back, he would have had 1,400 yards. He's an outstanding kid. He did everything for us."

JAMIE HOGAN, end, Granite City: The "Hogan-to-Hogan" combination — quarterback Tim to receiver Jamie — was the most effective in the area. Offensively, Jamie caught 55 passes for 837 yards; defensively, he intercepted 11 passes.

CRAIG BRIDELL, end, O'Fallon: The 6-3, 193-pound Bridell was a three-year letterman. He hauled in 35 passes for 477 yards last season and was also a very respected linebacker.

"He was a true two-way player," said Gary Bridell. "When we put him out there he gave full effort. He had a heck of a year. He has a knack of getting open and has very soft hands."

MARK WOJTAL, tackle, O'Fallon: Another three-year Panther letterman, Wojtal, a senior, used his size (6-1, 215) and intensity to become one of O'Fallon's key players.

"We thought he was our best offensive lineman," said Bridell. "He could have been equally good on defense. He was the type of athlete who never quit until the whistle blew. Mark got bigger and stronger for us and he always was a hustler who had a lot of determination."

DOUG BERNING, tackle, Althoff: A 6-0, 217-pound senior, Berning was one of the Crusaders' most improved players.

"This was only his third year playing football in his life," Schott said. "He worked hard in the weight room and it paid off on the football field."

KEN SHIELDS, guard, Althoff: The senior had excellent speed for his size (6-3, 245 pounds) and also had good balance.

"He can pull and he traps very well," Schott said. "He does all the things a big-time guard needs to do."

TIM DAVIS, guard, Granite City: The heroics of the Hogans — not to mention the Warriors' 1,351 rushing yards — couldn't have happened without the efforts of a talented offensive line led by Davis.

"He does an outstanding job blocking," said Bridell. "He's big, strong and pretty quick for a big kid. I thought he was well-deserving at center. He worked hard for it."

BOB FARMER, kicker, Belleville East: The senior was successful on six of 10 field goal attempts, with two of the misses coming on a muddy field at Jacksonville. Academically, he's ranked No. 1 in his class.

"I never had anybody who could kick that consistently from that far out," McGinnis said. "He went to a kicking camp last summer and honed his skills there."

JOHN HILKEY, defensive line, Belleville West: A 6-2, 226-pound senior, Hilkey had 28 solo tackles, 62 assists, two fumble recoveries and four sacks.

"He was the only kid with size that we had," said Coach Bruce Arnold. "In my opinion, he turned the corner this season from being an average player to an outstanding player. Every team we played had to contend with him."

TYRUSSE JOHNSON, defensive line, East St. Louis: Johnson paced the tough Flyers' defense with five quarterback sacks, 35 tackles and 30 assists. He started the season at linebacker, but was switched to defensive end.

RUSTY STROUSE, defensive line, O'Fallon: At 6-1 and a massive 230 pounds, Strouse, a junior, had a team-leading 41 and 13 sacks. He also had 57 assists.

"He opened up a lot of people's eyes in the area," said Bridell. "He's big and he's fast and a definite major college prospect next year. I don't think too many people can block him. He'll be one of our captains next year."

JIM GOMRIC, linebacker, Althoff: A 6-1, 197-pound senior, Gomric had 58 tackles, 39 assists and three sacks.

"He didn't turn 17 until Nov. 22, so he's got a lot of growing to do," Schott said. "Not only is he a good football player, but he also does quite well academically."

JEFF HEAD, linebacker, O'Fallon: Head, a 6-2, 215-pound senior, is a repeat performer at linebacker on the Journal all-area first team. He had 34 tackles and a team-leading 62 assists and was also a bruising halfback for the Panthers.

"He was hampered a little bit by a shoulder injury, but still had an outstanding season," said Bridell. "I thought we had two of the best running backs in the area, but we were very strong defensively and I think Jeff was a reason for that."

DAN SCHAEFER, linebacker, Althoff: Another member of Althoff's outstanding linebacking corps, Schaefer led the team with 63 tackles and had three sacks.

"He thoroughly enjoys playing the game," Schott said. "He's extremely quick for his size and moves laterally very well."

PAT HAYES, linebacker, Althoff: Hayes was a part of a Crusaders' defense that shut out seven opponents. He contributed 47 tackles and 22 assists.

"He's the type of kid you want on your ballclub," Schott said. "He and (Juan) Cox were our co-captains and our leaders emotionally and physically."

TODD BLOMBERG, defensive back, Belleville East: A 5-11, 165-pound senior, Blomberg was second on the team with 48 tackles and added 24 assists and one interception.

"Todd's a leader and an exceptional athlete," McGinnis said. "The coaches didn't really call our defense. We just gave him the game plan and let him make adjustments on the field."

TIM HOGAN, defensive back, Granite City: Hogan led the Warriors with 31 tackles and 75 assists — almost unheard of for a defensive back — and intercepted seven passes. As a quarterback, he completed 102 of 184 passes (55.4 percent) for 1,281 yards and 15 touchdowns.

CLINT KASTEN, punter, O'Fallon: Also one of the area's top quarterbacks, Kasten, a 6-2, 195-pound senior, kept the Panthers out of trouble with an average of 37.5 yards.

"We knew when we lined up for a punt, it was to our advantage to have Clint," said Bridell. "If it wasn't for all the good quarterbacks in the area, he could have won that honor. I wouldn't trade him for 100 many of them. He's just an outstanding athlete."
